Brother
Knights,

“Wherever you are in your Spiritual Life, Jesus Christ wants to encounter you right there and help take you to a better place.” (Steve Bollman, Founder, “That Man is You!” program).

There is no better time than the Advent Season to encounter Jesus Christ and to move to a better place, to experience a new beginning. Advent, in Latin, means “coming.” The Advent season is a time for “getting ready” for the celebration of Christmas. It is the preparation for God’s gift, the coming of Jesus into the world.

During the Advent season we gather around the Advent wreath, we think and pray with our families and pray for our loved ones, we pray for others in our community and we think of ways in which we may help those less fortunate. As we light the candles on the Advent wreath we anticipate the celebration of the birth of Jesus – Christmas Day.

The first Sunday of Advent we light the candle of hope – for a time we hope that everyone comes to know God.

The second Sunday we light the candle of love – we pray that the world comes to know that God loves all people.

The third Sunday we light the candle of joy – the kind of joy knowing that God cares for us.

On the fourth Sunday we light the candle of peace – our world clearly is not at peace. During Advent we pray that we as well as all people in the world will seek God’s peace.

On Christmas Day we light the center white candle which represents Jesus – we rejoice. We remember that God sent Jesus to give hope, peace, joy and love to all people.

Brothers, let us remember through this season and time going forward to embrace the gifts given us by God and share them with our families, loved ones, and community. Be strong, just, loving and peaceful.

Stephen Gauntner
Deputy Grand Knight

St. Daniel the Stylite
Priest
409-493 AD
December 11

Daniel was born in Maratha, Syria in 409 and became a monk in nearby Samosata on the Upper Euphrates. He learned of Saint Simeon Stylite the Elder, living on top of a pillar at Antioch and went to see him twice.

At the age of forty-two, Daniel decided that he too wanted to become a stylite (from the Greek word "stylos", meaning pillar) and live on top of a pillar at a spot near Constantinople. Therefore, Emperor Leo I, built a pillar with a platform on top for him, and Daniel was ordained there by St. Gennadius. The saint quickly became an attraction for the people. He celebrated the Eucharist on his pillar, preached sermons, dispensed spiritual advice, and cured the sick who were brought up to him. He also gave prudent counsel to Emperors Leo and Zeno and the patriarch of Constantinople. Exposed to the sun, wind, rain and elements, all the while, Daniel lived his particular type of "pillar spirituality." He came down from his perch only once in thirty-three years – to turn Emperor Baliscus away from backing the heresy of Monophysitism.

Daniel died in 493 and became the best known Stylite after St. Simeon Stylite the Elder. The life of St. Daniel the Stylite is an apt reminder that there are many ways to live the spiritual life. All of us have our own way to be close to God every day. Our task is to find that way and follow it to the very end.

A Very Merry Christmas to All.

God bless us, everyone!

Columbia Magazine

I have to admit that I don’t often get the chance to read the Columbia magazine. However, the December issue is full of inspirational stories. First, is an article regarding Father Aloysius H. Schmitt, the first Military Chaplain to die in WWII. He died aboard the USS Oklahoma on December 7, 1941. Father Schmitt sacrificed his own life so that others could live. The second is an article, written by a friend of mine, regarding Ensign William Halloran from Cleveland, Ohio who was the first Knights of Columbus member to die in WWII. He died aboard the USS Arizona, also on December 7, 1941. He was a graduate of OSU, as well.

Not as heroic, but certainly in the category of very important, the OLP Council #14282 is mentioned in the back of the magazine as one of the recipients of the Star Council Award for the 2015/16 Fraternal Year.
