Saint
Junipero
Serra
Missionary
1713-1784
July 1

In 1776, when the American Revolution was beginning in the east, another part of the future United States was being born in California. That year a gray-robed Franciscan founded Mission San Juan Capistrano. San Juan was the seventh of nine missions established under the direction of this indomitable Spaniard.

Born on Spain's island of Mallorca, Serra entered the Franciscan Order, taking the name of St. Francis' childlike companion, Brother Juniper. Until he was 35, he spent most of his time in the classroom. He also became famous for his preaching. Suddenly he gave it all up. Junipero's desire was to convert native peoples in the New World.

Arriving by ship at Vera Cruz, Mexico, he and a companion walked the 250 miles to Mexico City. On the way Junipero's left leg became infected by an insect bite and would remain a cross—sometimes life-threatening—for the rest of his life. For 18 years he worked in central Mexico and in the Baja Peninsula. He became president of the missions there.

Enter politics: the threat of a Russian invasion south from Alaska. Charles III of Spain ordered an expedition to beat Russia to the territory. So the last two conquistadors—one military, one spiritual—began their quest. José de Galvez persuaded Junipero to set out with him for present-day Monterey, California. The first mission founded after the 900-mile journey north was San Diego (1769).

Other missions followed: Monterey/Carmel (1770); San Antonio and San Gabriel (1771); San Luis Obispo (1772); San Francisco and San Juan Capistrano (1776); Santa Clara (1777); San Buenaventura (1782). Twelve more were founded after Serra's death.

Junipero made the long trip to Mexico City to settle great differences with the military commander. He arrived at the point of death. The outcome was substantially what Junipero sought: the famous "Regulation" protecting the Indians and the missions. It was the basis for the first significant legislation in California, a "Bill of Rights" for Native Americans.

Because the Native Americans were living a nonhuman life from the Spanish point of view, the friars were made their legal guardians.

Junipero's missionary life was a long battle with cold and hunger, with unsympathetic military commanders and even with danger of death from non-Christian native peoples. Through it all his unquenchable zeal was fed by prayer each night, often from midnight till dawn. He baptized over 6,000 people and confirmed 5,000. He is buried at Mission San Carlo Borromeo, Carmel, and was beatified in 1988. Pope Francis canonized him in Washington, D.C., on September 23, 2015.

Summer OLP Blood Drive

The Summer Blood Drive will be held Sunday, July 24th from 9:00 AM until 2:00 PM in the Old Rectory. To schedule an appointment please call the Red Cross at 1-800-733-2767 or book on-line at www.redcrossblood.org. Walk-ins are also welcome.

There is a critical need for blood during the summer months. With regular donors on vacation the blood supply is low, so more donations are needed. Please give the Gift of Life. It's easy and painless – you won't miss the blood and recipients of your generous gift will bless you.

Said by the Pope

"But sooner or later we must come to grips with this: that to forget God, to feign the death of God, is to promote the death of humankind and of all civilization."

Pope Saint John Paul II

Christ the Redeemer Statue Rio de Janeiro

One benefit of watching the 2016 Summer Olympics in Rio will be looking for spectacular camera shots of the Christ the Redeemer Statue that sits atop 2,300 ft. high Mt. Corcovado.

The Statue is an Art Deco statue of Jesus Christ created by Polish-French sculptor Paul Landowski and built by the Brazilian engineer Heitor da Silva Costa in collaboration with the French engineer Albert Caquot. The statue is 98 ft. tall, not including its 26 ft. pedestal, and its arms stretch 92 ft. wide.

The proposal for a landmark statue on the mountain was made in 1920 by the Catholic Circle of Rio. The group organized an event called Semana do Monumento ("Monument Week") to attract donations and collect signatures to support the building of the statue. What motivated the organization was what they perceived as 'Godlessness' in the society at the time. The donations came mostly from Brazilian Catholics. The statue of Christ the Redeemer with open arms, a symbol of peace, was chosen. The statue was dedicated on October 12, 1931.

In October 2006, on the 75th anniversary of the statue's completion, Archbishop of Rio, Cardinal Eusebio Oscar Scheid, consecrated a chapel named after Brazil's patron - Our Lady of the Apparition, under the statue. This allows Catholics to hold baptisms and weddings there.

The statue is the largest Art Deco-style sculpture in the world and is one of Rio de Janeiro's most recognizable landmarks. It is the second largest statue of Christ in the world and in 2007 it was named one of the New Seven Wonders of the World.
